Announcement Letter May 1996

Dear Brethren,

Keep your eyes and minds focused on conditions and events of the time. Things are happening. How rapidly these conditions will deteriorate and devolve into the classic apocalyptic events familiar to Bible students, no one really knows. This much, however, you can know. We are already beginning to see the budding of the tree. Time is relatively short. We still seriously wonder just what might be seen and/or experienced before this year comes to a conclusion. Do not be found slumbering.

Spiritual Principle/Current Event: Multiculturalism—The Destruction of a People

Take a look any place you may desire on this earth. Is there any place outside of Europe, England, her former colonies, and the United States where masses of people are immigrating? Does it not strike you as odd that such can be the case and yet we are expected to believe that true globalization is the objective? Is it possible that what is happening is of a more sinister character than remotely suspected? Could it be that there is a broad intent to destroy "whites" with a special emphasis upon those we know to be Israelitish?

Immigration is not a universal problem! It is a problem of the nations of Israel. And for a very evil reason. A St. Petersburg Times story shows that the U.S., with the approval of Congress, is secretly recruiting immigrants from more than one hundred countries. Initiated by Senator Edward Kennedy, the program's purpose is "to diversify the existing pool of immigrants," because certain ethnic groups are "under-represented in the current cultural mix." Would we be presumptuous to ask why a certain mix is necessary? What is wrong with people living in their own lands? Does anyone have the courage to admit that a nefarious, willful, and evil plot is in the making?

Does immigration have anything to do with discrimination? What is discrimination in the first place? "Think about the term 'discrimination.' It means choosing among several options. All our thoughts, words, and deeds are choices among options. We stop discriminating only when we become slaves or when we die. When the government got into the business of regulating our choices through anti-discrimination law, it was an attempt to regulate our thoughts" (Llewellyn H. Rockwell, of the Ludwig Von Mises Institute). Could the forced immigration and anti-discrimination laws have anything to do with mongrelizing the races? Lawrence Dawson, of the American Information Newsletter says that the people of this generation "have been taught that the natural preference for one's own kind is equivalent to hostility toward other groups. . . . A stake has been driven into the heart of the concept of a nation as an ethnic grouping. In its place we are given 'multi-culturalism' or the concept that the government of the 'nation' supervises conflicts between many competing ethnic groups. The ethnic group is no longer allowed self-government and the concept of a nation is converted from that of a 'people' to that of a geographic territory governing many different 'peoples.'" Continuing he states, "The Powers behind the New World Order realized that the nation as an ethnic/cultural group must be destroyed before their plans could be realized. This is the reason massive immigration of ethnic foreigners was encouraged in all European countries, [and] why the U.S. opened its borders to ethnic aliens, even recruiting them with enticements of money." The government law to give equal protection to blacks was quickly supplanted by the anti-racism howl which equated attachment to a white-ethnically-defined culture as a "hateful exclusion of blacks." According to the Sydney Morning Herald, with the beginning of the civil rights movement in the 1960's, in which blacks were taught that they were the perpetual victims of whites, there has been an ongoing "war of violent retribution against white America."

What is it all about? What is anti-discrimination and racism intended to accomplish? Nothing just happens. There must be something behind the efforts of so many governments and peoples. World Goodwill, in a pamphlet entitled The New Group of World Servers, says there is an elite group of "people who are building the new world order." "They speak all languages; they embrace all religions, all sciences and philosophies. Their characteristics are synthesis, inclusiveness, [and] intellectuality They owe to no creed, save the Brotherhood They recognize no authority save that of their own souls."

Multiculturalism has its feministic twist, also. Somehow all the divergent concepts related to the idea of a "New World Order" fit together into a planned structure. Racism is not disassociated with feminism. Feminism plays an integral part in the concept of multiculturalism. According to Indian activist Russell Means, ". . . there are only two cultures, one indigenous and one industrial." He implies that indigenous people are not war-like—they are the most peace-loving people on earth. What is the basis for this assumption? "[I]ndigenous societies are matriarchal—ruled by mothers, and mothers never want to kill their babies or anything that's living." He continues, "When you understand matriarchal societies, you can understand life itself because women create . . . They're the only living beings on Earth purified naturally by the universe, in exact time with the moon. How can God be a male entity? I find that insulting." He loathes all concepts of Christianity because they justify imperialism and male supremacy in the name of male "gods." Any authority and control by either males, or especially "white males" is considered anathema. Indigenous people have been exploited and oppressed, according to Means, because they are obstacles to the achievement of Eurocentric male's manifest destiny. Is this another diabolical venting of one's anger against the selection and assignment of God? Certainly sounds like it.

Why are our immigration laws continually being defined in such a way that most are led to believe that America, and to some extent other white nations, have a moral obligation to the rest of the world? Such laxity has allowed demonstrations such as the following. In a recent "American Pluralism and Identity" conference, a Latino activist shouted: "I am not an American. There is nothing about me that is American. I don't want to be an American, and I have just as much right to be here as any of you." The response? Incredibly, National Endowment for the Humanities director, Sheldon Hackney, responded: "What an American thing to say . . . He was affirming his American identity even as he was denying it." As stated in the New American, "From Hackney's perspective, there are none so American as those who hate this country." And from the perspective of Georgie Anne Geyer, liberal columnist, multiculturalism is "an educational doctrine which holds that America's European heritage is unworthy and must be abandoned." Further, Lawrence Auster, author of The Path to National Suicide, says: European Christian culture (Would it be better to identify it as Israelitish?) is now viewed as that of "genocidal aggressors and bearers of the political plague of racism." Continuing, he says in multiculturalism the elitists seek "the creation of compliant citizens of a new social order, whose feelings toward pre-1965 America and its heroes . . . will be contempt, guilt, or indifference."

Plans and designs are one thing. A global design is of incalculable proportions. How do these elitists propose to bring such a design to completion? The American Information Newsletter made this most revealing comment: "One of the chief characteristics of the socio-fascist ideology is that reality must be distorted to allege 'victimization' for minority outsider groups while demonizing bearers of traditional Western culture." That pretty well tells the story does it not? A few more quotes should suffice.

Alston Chase, in his book, In a Dark Wood: The Fight Over Forests and the Rising Tyranny of Ecology, observes: "The [Clinton] Administration under the rubric of 'reinventing government,' [has] adopted biocentrism as the guiding philosophy of all federal land management . . ." Biocentrism is essentially a system of nature worship in which human beings are seen as merely another species inhabiting a democratic "ecosystem." The mass migration of Latin Americans to the U.S. ". . . seems to be slowly returning [the Southwest] to the jurisdiction of Mexico without the firing of a single shot, nor requiring the least diplomatic action, by means of a steady, spontaneous, and uninterrupted occupation" (1982 article published in Excelsior).

According to the late Professor Christopher Lasch, in his book The Revolt of the Elites: "The revolt or disengagement of the elites in big business, big government, and big culture is the driving force behind the push for 'global unification' . . . it also drives the invasion of the United States by mass immigration, an invasion that ultimately means the replacement of one population by another."

What is it all about? According to the New American, 16 Feb. 1996, the immigration policies of this country have not come about by chance or miscalculation. "They are deliberate and aim at the fundamental transformation of the substance of the population of the United States so that by its very nature it will be unstable, disunited, rootless, fickle, easily controlled, and, most importantly, incapable of resistance to international tyranny."

Are we truly witnessing the gradual "unmaking" of America (also NW Europe and England with its former colonies) as a sovereign nation, and the subjugation and captivity of its people?

General Instructions

It is alarming how fast humans can drift, totally unintentionally, from the rigidity of truth. Even though not consciously done we fail in some measure to wholly follow the instructions of God regarding holyday offerings. The instructions are clear and precise. We are not to come before God empty at specific designated times—Passover and Unleavened Bread, Pentecost, and the Feast of Tabernacles. Technically, to fully honor God, we should take our offering with us to be presented at the time of the convocation. In honor to our Great God, let us, all of us, take our offerings to the appointed places of worship—meeting location or home. Those who live too far to congregate may send them to the office here in Eugene. Most will be privileged to surrender them to appropriate individuals who will handle the submission to Eugene. Full and faithful compliance should bring us all many blessings and a feeling of joyous satisfaction.

Office

Please be reminded once again of the telephone area code change which will take effect on June 1. The new code number will be 541 and can be used right now. The old number 503 can still be used until June but it would be good to get into the habit of using the new number as soon as possible.
